

Production of apples in China (1961 - 2016)

China has the maximum production of apples across the globe which accounts to approx. 698 millions. Initially, in 1961, it produced only 167,000 apples and continued to increase its production with a few downfalls in some years. However, since 1992, the production of apples started increasing in huge numbers and in 2016, it reached 7 times its production in 1992.

The highlights displays the years from which there is steep increment in the production of apples in China.

